CM orders release of water from dams to save crops

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE GANDHINAGAR, AUGUST 10

AS IT is in the monsoon rain is getting stretched with every passing day. Chief Minister Vijay Rupani Tuesday decided to immediately release water from dams or reservoirs for irrigation purpose to save standing crops in the state, said an official release. The CM has ordered the release of the water while reserving the water stock for drinking purpose in dams or reservoirs for the period up to September, the release added.

The release said that the CM has taken the "sensitive" decision in the interest of farmers to save the standing crops owing to stretching dry spell in monsoon.

"While reserving the water stock for drinking purpose in dams/reservoirs for the period up to September 30, the CM has given instructions to water resources department to release standing water with immediate effect to save standing crop of farmers," it said. As per the release, five lakh hectare land of the state government will be benefited by this decision.

It added that out of the 141 dams of Suratasha, the water for irrigation purpose will be given from 88 dams catering to 60,000 hectare land. In North Gujarat, water will be given from Dharoi dam covering 15,000 hectare land.

In Central Gujarat, Mahi river's command area will be provided 6,000 cusec water from Kadana reservoir. Also, water will be provided to irrigate 2.10 lakh hectare land from 11 reservoirs including Panam. In South Gujarat, 1.10 lakh hectare land will get water for irrigation from six reservoirs of the region.

Owing to the stretched dry spell in the state during peak monsoon season, a number of farmers are worried even as dams and groundwater resources have not been replenished to irrigate their crops.

The storage capacity of dams in Gujarat is also less than the corresponding figure of last year. Deputy Chief Minister Nitin Patel too has earlier this month expressed concern over the dull monsoon during the monsoon season and less water level in Sardar Sarovar or Narmada dam which is the main source of water for Gujarat.

In July, the CM had decided to provide electricity to agriculturists for two additional hours while making it available to them for 10 hours instead of eight hours.

Disease diagnostic centre to be set up for Asiatic lions

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE GANDHINAGAR, AUGUST 10

CHIEF MINISTER Vijay Rupani on Tuesday said that for the conservation of the Asiatic lions and to pre-empt their deaths by any infectious diseases in Gujarat, the state government will set up a state-of-the-art disease diagnostic and research centre.

The CM was taking part in a virtual celebration of Gujarat government on the occasion of World Lion Day. Gujarat government has been celebrating World Lion Day since 2016.

Speaking on lions, Rupani said that as a symbol of strength and holiness, lions have a special relevance in Hinduism. "In Hinduism, we have associated lion with gods and goddesses. In our culture, there is importance of Narsinh (incarnation of god), lions (the vehicle of Goddess Amba). Not only as an animal, we worship lion as a symbol of holiness and strength and conserve it."

On the setting up of disease diagnostic and research centre, Rupani said, "We will set up a state-of-the-art disease diagnostic and research centre in future so that we do not have to lose lions to some infectious diseases."
